Fire Consumes GHI Townhouse Unit City's Recreation Program Expands for Children, Teens

by David Morse

A swift-moving fire gutted a townhouse end unit in Old Greenbelt late Sunday night. Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department Chief Dick Wynkoop said at the scene that the unit, at 10-F Plateau Place, was "totalled." But the firefighters' quick response, as well as certain structural features of the building, helped prevent spread of the fire to the adjacent unit, and prevented more serious structural damage. There were no injuries, according to Chief Wynkoop.

The fire was caused by a malfunctioning electric coffee pot, said Pete Piringer, a spokesman for the Prince Georges County Fire Department. An investigation is also being conducted by the insurance company for Greenbelt Homes, Inc.

Chief Wynkoop said it was unusual for a fire in an occupied home to spread so rapidly. "The initial call was for fire in the kitchen. But when we first got here, there was heavy fire on the first and second floor. When they kicked open the front door, fire blew out all the windows of the house. The fire drew units from four other area fire companies; Berwyn Heights, Branchville, West Lanham Hills and College Park.

Relief Efforts

Efforts to help the Bush family are being coordinated by Mary Linstrom, president of St. Hugh's Ladies of Charity and a member of the Catholic Community, in cooperation with the City of Greenbelt, City Manager Daniel Hobbs said that the city's Emergency Assistance Fund will act as a conduit for money donations.

Donors may mail contributions or make them in person at the city's Finance Department (8 a.m.-4:30 p.m.). (Checks should be made out to "City of Greenbelt Emergency Assistance Fund). Mail donations should specify in an accompanying note that the contribution is designated for the Bushes. Furthermore, on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, the city will accept and store donations of furniture, clothing, housewares, toys, Super Nintendos, etc., at its garage behind the swim center on the northeast side of the building. Contact Mary Linstrom for more details (474-7951).

A Beltsville thrift store, "My Friend's Closet," has offered to make clothing available to the Bushes free of charge. The store, located at 11000 Baltimore Avenue (Route 1) in Beltsville, is operated by the Association for Retarded Citizens of Prince Georges County. Contributions to the store are tax-deductible.

Thelma Sweeney of 10-E Plateau, the unit adjacent to the fire, expressed gratitude to Chief Wynkoop at the scene. "You saved my house," she said. "I thought my house was a goner. I never saw so many flames. You guys got here so fast."

Later, Sweeney added, "It's scary how quickly that house went up. I'm talking three, four minutes (from the time I was notified)." I heard (my next-door-neighbor) screaming. Then she was pounding on my door shouting, "Fire." I called the fire department. Flames were shooting out the back of the house, the front of the house. I'll tell you, I prayed. When I came out of the house—I got the kids out, the dogs out—I just knew my house was gone. And I don't have any money (to pay for fire losses)."

Greenbelt City Councilmember Rodney Roberts, who lives directly across the narrow parking lot from the damaged unit, said, "When I first came outside, I thought there were a bunch of lights on. But then I saw it was the siding on fire. The whole back yard was lit up like a bunch of spotlights. The fire was coming out the back of the house."

The damaged unit is the home of Michael and Alicia Bush, and their children, Nathan, 9, and Courtney, 3. Michael Bush said the fire started after 11 p.m. "We were upstairs watching public TV in the bedroom with the door shut when we smelled smoke." Shortly before, their cat, Radia, had been meowing and behaving peculiarly, but they discerned nothing at that time. After they smelled smoke, they then began to look around for the source.

"When we opened the bedroom door, the smoke just rushed in. As we ran down the stairs, there was a hot wind blowing up the stairs. It was too smoky to see anything, or to breathe.

I held my breath as I ran. There was no time to call the fire department." They escaped through the back door and ran around to the front.

"We could see the fire in the kitchen then. It spread so fast. I could see the fire climbing up the wall to the ceiling. It (the wall) was covered with orange. We immediately ran next door and pounded on the door." Their son, Nathan, was spending the night next door with Thelma Sweeney's grandson. "Then we ran to the third unit and told them. Five minutes after that, the whole kitchen was in flames and the windows exploded. By the time the Fire Department got there the kitchen was completely burned out and had gone black. It had spread to the back of the house and up the stairs."

Bush said the family had lost almost all its possessions in the fire, with the exception of some items in his son's room, which was partially shielded from the intense heat because the door was shut. Unfortunately, one of his son's most cherished possessions, a "Super Nintendo" video game, was lost in the confusion

One of the many things that sets Greenbelt apart from other communities is its Recreation Department, which functions not as an impersonal government department, but as an integral part of the community's daily life, offering facilities that remain open 365 days of the year. Established in 1937, as part of the planned community concept, the Greenbelt Recreation Department, was the first of its kind in the state of Maryland. Since then, its primary objective, according to Hank Irving, Director of Recreation, "has been to serve the leisure needs of the Greenbelt residents and to try and provide every program for which there is citizen interest."

In pursuing this aim the department has grown substantially, serving as many as 483,669 users through a variety of general and special interest programs at sites such as the Greenbelt Youth Center, the Springhill Lake Center and the Schrom Hills Park during the year 1991-92. While the department thus offers programs on a regular year round basis, the summer, not surprisingly, is an especially busy period for it. This summer, besides the usual activities for children and adults, the Recreation Department has introduced several new programs. Significant among these are the Teen House Party and the Children's Theater at the Lake.

The Teen House Party, as the name suggests, is a special interest program for teenagers. Sponsored jointly by the department and the Maryland-National Capital Parks and Planning Commission (MNCPPC), this program, located at the Schrom Hills Park Center, aims to offer teens between 12-15, "a supervised location to meet on a daily basis in the summer," said Irving. A wide variety of group activities, including games and sports, classes, parties and excursions to King's Dominion and the Hershey Park, have been planned so that teens can be constructively occupied.

The Children's Theatre, on the other hand, is a new educational/entertainment series of performances directed primarily at younger children from ages 3-12.

These take place at the Buddy Attick Park and include mimes, ventriloquism and puppetry.

Further, the department has also undertaken an expansion of the existing pre-school programs, such as the Mom's/Dad's Morning/Afternoon Out and the summer KinderKamp, as well as of the Creative Arts program which now offers an extended six-week Creative Kids camp and new classes in photography and clay sculpture.

Financial Constraints

A major obstacle to these developments, however, has been the restricted availability of financial resources caused by the revenue reductions experienced by the city as a whole. As a result, the Recreation Department has had "to do more with less." In this effort it has received considerable help from recreation-oriented city residents who, according to Director Irving, have "generously volunteered their time, serving on committees and working on programs like the Boys and Girls Club that would not otherwise be feasible."

Finally, with regard to the future, although the first priority of the department is to maintain the existing level of services, some new projects are nevertheless in the pipeline. These include: the opening of the new Community Center that will serve as a multi-generational arts and recreation complex, the development of more specialized camps and mini workshops and lastly an enhanced focus on social issues such as safety, AIDS, childcare and the special needs of the disabled that are of interest to the community.

Junior Ranger Program at Park

The National Park Service is offering a Junior Ranger Program to introduce 8-11 year old children to the Park Service and to the natural environment of Greenbelt Park. Four one-day sessions are scheduled on Wednesdays, August 11 and 25 and Saturdays, September 11 and 25. The programs will run from 9-2 and each child should attend one session only. Pre-registration is required. For information call 344-3948.

Correction

Inadvertently omitted from the July 15 article on the Metrobus Route proposals was the presentation by Delegate Joan Pitkin (who represents Greenbelt.) She told Metro officials that "While the goal of WMATA in its turnback study was to avoid overlap and competition between Metrobus and Metrorail routes, I believe under the new proposal the overall goal of increased mass transit ridership and reduction in cost certainly to commuters will not be met. Indeed the ultimate ridership could therefore decrease and the bigger goal of getting more people out of their cars will fail."

She recommended that the study be reevaluated "in terms of meeting the needs of the citizen."

Prominent Volunteer Nominations Sought

Nominations are being sought for the most outstanding volunteers in Prince Georges County. Adults, youths, groups and corporate volunteers are eligible for nomination for their exemplary community service. The Prince Georges County Volunteer Award program is coordinated annually by the Prince Georges Voluntary Action Center. Nomination deadline is August 15, 1993. The awards ceremony will be held this Fall at the County Administration Building, Upper Marlboro.

For more information or to nominate volunteers, call the Voluntary Action Center at 779-9444.

AIRPORT CELEBRATES AIRMAIL ANNIVERSARY

In honor of the 75th Anniversary of the Airmail, the College Park Airport Museum will host a special re-enactment of the first flight on Thursday, August 12, from 9 a.m. to noon. On that same day in 1918, the Postal Department inaugurated their first Airmail Service from the College Park field. Crowds numbering in the thousands watched as pilot Max Miller climbed into his Standard biplane and took off on the Washington-Pennsylvania-New York route with several sacks of mail.

This event will include a postal cancellation booth, with a special cancellation being created to commemorate the day. Antique cars and period costumes will help recreate the time period of that significant day in history. The "airmail pilot" will then fly to Lock Haven, Pennsylvania, which is in turn commemorating the 75th anniversary of the New York to Chicago airmail route which was inaugurated on September 5, 1918.

For information call the College Park Airport Museum at 864-1530 or the History Division 779-2011; TDD 699-2544.

The museum is a facility of The Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission, Department of Parks and Recreation, Prince Georges County and is open to all free of charge.

Update

Dear Friends and Family:

This is an update on Faye's condition. After several hospitalizations over the winter and spring months due to infections, it was determined that the phrenic nerve was not healing itself and therefore could not be counted on to correct the paralyzed diaphragm. Consequently she underwent corrective surgery at the end of May.

At the present time she feels quite well, is exercising regularly and her stamina has increased.

Thanks to all for your prayers, calls, cards, financial contributions and other acts of love. Please continue to remember us.

Don't Hesitate, Nominate!

To the Editor:

At this time each year, the Selection Committee for the Outstanding Citizen Award fans out to many areas and activities in the city in search of the volunteer who is worthy of this honor. There are so many such people that our efforts alone won't get the job done. We need the help of everyone.

Who is eligible for this award? The person whose peers say he or she deserves it. Any Greenbelter whose contributions are considered worthy of honor by those who benefited most from them.

Nominating someone is easy. Possible nominees are plentiful. They are individuals or part of a group, usually both. All they have to be is outstanding, as you define outstanding. All you have to do is write a letter to the Steering Committee along with the form found in this issue of the News Review.

Talk it over with your friends and neighbors. Even ask your children. Take a few moments to recognize someone who is an outstanding citizen. The deadline is fast approaching. It is August 15. Don't hesitate, nominate!

following the fire. Said Alicia Bush. "It was a madhouse scene, controlled madness."

Extent of the Damage

The fire "equals the worst I've seen" in GHI, said Jay Freedman, Director of Technical Services for GHI since 1985. But he noted that the damage was limited by certain features of the unit, which was built in 1940 by the Resettlement Administration, a federal agency.

"The partition wall constructed during rehab did its job," he said, referring to drywall barriers installed between units in a 1981 renovation. "It prevented extensive structural damage," and kept the fire from spreading to other units through the attic. "The structural members (studs, joists, beam, and subflooring) are in excellent condition." The drywall, he said, prevented the fire from getting into the walls.

This opinion was echoed by Fire Department Assistant Chief Gene Davis, who said that the older homes were built to higher standards than some current construction. "They didn't cut corners in those days," he said. He added that in the 25 years he has been with the Fire Department, none (of the serious fires in GHI) have spread to the unit next door, either through the walls or through the roof."

Davis said that people should be careful to reduce fire risks with the measures available to them. Most important, he said, is to make sure smoke detectors are working, and if battery-operated, to replace the batteries when needed. "If you have an inoperable smoke detector, the Fire Department will give you another one free of charge," he said. "We'll be glad to come by and check it for you. A smoke detector is the first line of defense if you're asleep upstairs."

Secondly, if fire should break out, call 911 first, before making any attempts to extinguish it. And a fire extinguisher should only be used "if it doesn't put you in harm's way," said Davis. He said that the fire department recommends that a home extinguisher rated "ABC," which is capable of putting out small grease and electrical fires as well as wood and paper, should be stored near the kitchen.

Freedman emphasized that it was important for GHI residents to carry insurance on the contents of their unit. Members should make sure the policy also covers sheds, fences, decks, etc.

Fifty Years Ago

10% Wage Hike OK'd

by James Giese

July, 1943 — The Greenbelt Town Council granted town employees a wage increase amounting to approximately ten percent—but there was a catch. The employees had to work 48 hours a week instead of 44. In turn, they would be paid at a time-and-one-half overtime rate for the four extra hours. The employees base pay rate remained the same. According to Town Manager Roy Braden, the new wages would place the local municipal workers on the same schedule as local employees of the federal government.

Festival Notes

by Sandy Smith

Each year the Labor Day Festival counts on the support of Greenbelt and area businesses to help finance the various events of the Festival. Many citizens don't know that the Festival is a non-profit, all-volunteer group which must raise the funds to finance the Festival. The Festival raises funds through booth fees, carnival commissions, and donations. The major expenses for the Festival are the professional entertainers who perform non-stop on the Festival stage and expenses related to the parade. Businesses can provide overall support or underwrite a specific event or award. For more information, contact Bobbi McCarthy, Festival Committee President at 474-5888.

Photography Exhibit

Greenbelt photographers are invited to participate in the Labor Day Festival's photo show and competition. Awards are given for best prints in the following categories: nature/landscape, abstract, general (color) and new this year the category of People. The competition brings back a category just for black and white work. As usual, viewers of the exhibition vote for community favorite.

There is a special category for Young Photographer (under 16) but children and teens can also enter in any category.

Photographers can submit two entries. Each must be framed, wire attached and ready to hang. No preregistration is required and there is no fee.

The exhibition runs throughout the Labor Day weekend at the Greenbelt Youth Center. Entries are accepted the first night of the Festival, from 6 to 8 p.m. Friday, September 3. Call Jim Parker 345-9573.

Art Show

Also at the Greenbelt Youth Center, the Labor Day Festival Art Show draws more entries each year. There is especially a growing number of children entering the art show as well as the photo competition. There are no fees to enter, but preregistration is required. Registration forms appear in the News Review later in August and are available from Barbara Simon at 474-2192. Prizes are given in all categories, as well as the Cipriano award, which is given to the work best depicting the theme Americans at work.

The Art Show is organized by the Greenbelt Visual Arts Coalition, a group of Greenbelt artists, arts educators, and supporters of the arts who are working with the city to create a home for the visual arts in the new community center. Information about the arts studios and arts classrooms planned for the center will be available at the shows.

Outstanding Citizen

The Grand Marshal of the Greenbelt Labor Day Parade will be the year's Outstanding Citizen. Citizens throughout the community can be nominated by anyone, family, friends, neighbors, or others who recognize their contributions to the community. Nomination forms will appear in the News Review or call Tom Renahan at 345-5352 for information.

Information Display

August 14 is the deadline for organizations, businesses, citizen groups and others to have a one-day information display during the Labor Day Festival. Groups use this opportunity to publicize their group's activities, recruit members, and generate support. Businesses take this opportunity to acquaint the many Festival goers with the services they can provide. Contact J Davis 345-3243 for more information. (See page 12)

ECZEMA

(Atopic Dermatitis)

Andrew G. Aronfy, M.D. FAAP

WHAT IS ECZEMA? WHO GETS IT?

Eczema is an itchy skin disorder which occurs in patients who may have a familial tendency to develop allergies such as hay fever, asthma, and sinus trouble. Some children will "outgrow" this condition in a few months or years and it will never come back; some will struggle with this condition forever; and in some the rash will appear off and on throughout life, either unpredictably or caused by some irritants such as food or animal dander, or climatic conditions. Most commonly the first episode appears during infancy, mostly on the face, and in the creases of the elbows and knees.

HOW IS ATOPIC SKIN DIFFERENT?

Atopic skin is more sensitive, drier, and more easily irritated than normal skin. It is always itchy. Thus the most important thing to remember is that eczema is an itch, more than a rash!

TREATMENT

The first and most important purpose of treatment is the reduction of itching and the elimination of dryness. The home environment must be not too hot and not too dry. Bathing must be infrequent and brief. The bath water should be lukewarm. Mild soaps (NutraGena, Dove) should be used. Moisturizing agents (Moisturel, Cetaphil) should be applied after every bath. (If bath oils are used, beware of slippery tubs.) Never use bubble baths. After a bath the child should be "blotted," not rubbed, with a towel. Soft clothing should be worn; starch-free cotton next to the skin; no wool. Atopic children should be under dressed to avoid sweating. Reduction of activities that produce sweating is a necessity. Fuzzy toys and animals should be eliminated.

An important rule in the treatment of skin diseases is that the more severe the lesion, the milder the treatment — and vice versa. Weeping and crusty lesions must be treated with compresses (e.g. Burrow's solution), and thick, dry lesions require creams, gels, or ointments. The compresses should be at room temperature. All these medications should be applied three or four times a day.

Dietary restrictions are often useless, and should be avoided, unless there is clear indication that the eczema is aggravated by certain foods.

Drug therapy for eczema is applied SPARINGLY to the skin. The most common drug is some form of corticosteroid which comes in different strengths, and in different vehicles. Other useful drugs are: coal tar derivatives, and urea. The only drug group prescribed regularly to be taken by mouth is antihistamines for itching. My favorite is hydroxyzine (Atarax, Vistaril), but diphenhydramine (Benadryl) is probably the most popular. This should be used liberally, because itching will make the rash worse. These antihistamines are very safe, and not habit-forming. They can be used practically forever.

SPECIAL ADVICE

Keep in continual contact with your doctor. Report any worrisome changes in your child's condition.

Do NOT apply any medication your doctor does not know about.

A child with eczema must be kept away from people with cold sores and fever blisters. A life-threatening rash may result.

Other than what we have discussed above, your child should lead a normal life. If you have any questions, please call us.

JOE'S TIPS OF THE WEEK

Hello again ! ! !

A lot of questions come our way on what should be done if you get caught in traffic tie-ups.

First off, try to go without the air conditioner. This adds additional heat buildup to the engine and other components and with no air flow across the front end it just makes everything warmer.

As odd as this may sound, next turn the heater on maximum with high blower. This acts as a little extra radiator and will help cool the engine.

Finally, if the vehicle has automatic transmission, place the shifter in neutral when not moving. This allows transmission fluid to flow through the unit allowing extra cooling.

TILL NEXT TIME

Pooper Scoopers

On another note, the Labor Day Parade is in urgent need of two pooper scoopers. This year's parade will feature a horse marching unit and pooper scoopers are needed to work the parade route. Ideal job for two children or teens. Clown costumes, free carnival ride tickets, and nominal compensation are provided. Call Parade Chair, Tony Fominaya, at 474-1274. For another form of transportation, Tony is also looking for convertibles for the parade's dignitaries.

Environmental Art Award

This year the Greenbelt Art Show will again have a special award for the work best portraying appreciation for the environment. The environmental art award was first offered last year by the Greenbelt Greens and the Committee to Save the Green Belt.

Notlim the Clown

Notlim the Clown, a Labor Day tradition for 14 years, will again open the Carnival. Notlim roams the Carnival grounds as the Festival begins, greeting children and entertaining them. Children remember him from year to year and he is a very popular feature of the Labor Day Festival.

Community Information Day

August 14 is the deadline for community groups and businesses to sponsor a one-day information display during the Labor Day Festival. This area of the Festival expanded greatly from last year and space is available on a first-come basis. Call now to reserve a space and submit an application to J Davis 345-3243.
